Collection and Disclosure of Information

D’Arcangelo Financial collects certain nonpublic personal identifying information about you—such as your name, address, social security number, etc.—from information that you provide on applications or other forms as well as communications (electronic, telephone, written, or in person) with you or your authorized representatives. D’Arcangelo Financial also collects information about your brokerage accounts and transactions, such as purchases, sales, account balances, inquiries, etc. However, D’Arcangelo Financial does not disclose any nonpublic personal information collected about clients or prospective clients to anyone except: in furtherance of our business relationship with them and then only to those persons necessary, etc.; the firm’s attorneys, accountants, and auditors; or as otherwise provided by law. D’Arcangelo Financial is permitted by law to disclose the nonpublic personal information about you to governmental agencies and other third parties in certain circumstances. Any information provided to third parties under these circumstances is prohibited to be used or shared for any other purpose than its intended use. D’Arcangelo Financial does restrict access to your nonpublic personal information to only those employees who need to know that information to service your account. We maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards that comply with applicable federal and state standards to protect you nonpublic personal information.
